Local man indicted by grand jury in major state drug bust

 By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Even though Michael Edward Lytle, 29, of Romulus was indicted last month along with eight others for alleged involvement in a large scale drug ring, he continues to operate his business, the Video Depot on Willis in Sumpter Township.

Released on personal bond, Lytle is a lifetime resident of the area. He was born and raised in Belleville, the middle of three boys and attended school there. He was married last October.

He has operated his business on Willis Road for at least two years, according to the owner who leases the property to Lytle. Local Police Chief Clinton Brown of Sumpter stated, "I've checked the files and we've never had any trouble with the store or its owner."

On July 31, the FBI announced that "a federal grand jury has returned a 16-count indictment charging a group of nine men, most of whom are from the Holland, Michigan area, with conspiracy to distribute marijuana in excess of 1,000 pounds, and other controlled substances and other offenses from 1975 to the present."

Lytle was also charged with "one count of interstate travel to facilitate drug distribution" and "one count of distribution of cocaine and hashish."

Lytle was allegedly involved in the transportation and distribution of marijuana on a regular basis.

With another defendant, during February 1982, Lytle "caused one pound of cocaine to be transported from south Florida to Detroit," according to the indictment.

Five months later they, "traveled to Toledo, Ohio and caused approximately two pounds of cocaine and 20 pounds of hashish to be transported from Detroit, Michigan and on to Holland, Michigan."

On the western shore of Lake Michigan, in Holland during March 1981 two defendants in the group formed a business and operated under the name of the Holland Fish Market designed to help disguise the true source of their incomes, according to the indictment.

The operation received marijuana from Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, and other domestic types of marijuana as well as Columbian and Mexican marijuana.

Amounts of 500 pounds of marijuana were received on several occasions. And 100 pounds of sinsemilla, a select type prepared from the unpollinated female cannabis plant being more potent and having a higher price than other forms. One hundred pounds of sinsemilla were sold for $100,000 cash, according to the indictment.

A pre-trial for the nine has been scheduled for sometime in the next few weeks.

The maximum penalty for conspiracy to distribute more than 1,000 pounds of marijuana is 15 years imprisonment, or a fine of $125,000, or both, and a mandatory special parole term of at least two years.

to be or not to be

Strikers struggle to be recognized

Conway Central Express in Romulus obtained an injunction from Wayne County Circuit Court against Teamsters Local 299 which will limit the number of picketers in front of the Middlebelt Road facility.

The strike began last Monday with almost 100 people walking the line, according to Romulus Police Lt. Ken Kraus. "There have been no major incidents or confrontations as a result of the weeklong strike," noted Kraus.

Ron Owen, president of Local 299 and its 10,000 members, said, "Over 51 percent of the employees here at Conway have signed cards stating they want a union. All we are asking is that the company recognize the union as a bargaining agent to represent their employees."

Conway operates a regional transport facility with trucks that haul general dry freight such as automotive parts, household items, food and chemicals within the state. The company is based in Ann Arbor with 10 facilities in the state. Nearly 100 people are employed at the combined Warren and Romulus facilities.

"We're striking for one thing, to be recognized, that's all. We're just trying to give these people what they want.

We'll stay out here and see who outlasts who," stated Owen.

Dick Palazzo, Conway vice-president responded, "We have no knowledge of any employee who wants representation by Local 299 or any other union. None of our employees are picketing."

According to the injunction, no more than 12 people can picket in front of the business at one time. Violators face fines or jail sentences according to police. The only alternative for the union according to Palazzo, will be a decision from the National Labor Relations Board.

World College in Romulus is reality with first phase

 By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

The creation of the Metro Center World College in Romulus becomes reality when registration for fall classes begins this week.

Eastern Michigan University (EMU) of Ypsilanti, has announced plans to expand off-campus operations and the city of Romulus has been chosen the site of the new multipurpose facility.

"We at Eastern Michigan University have enjoyed working with Mayor Beverly McAnally and other city officials. We hope that this fall kick-off of the first stage of our project will lead to the creation of a Metro Center World College what will be the standard of excellence for the nation," said Dr. John Porter, president of EMU.

"This is the first step of years to come," said McAnally. "We are pleased to begin this project."

Dr. Paul McKelvey, the Dean of Continuing Education at EMU, explained that the idea of a world college has been discussed for almost two years.

"This is the first time more than one class will be offered through EMU here in Romulus.

Four classes will be available at Gordonier School on Smith Road beginning Sept. 9. EMU has quite an extensive off campus operation which began in 1912," said McKelvey who will be in City Hall from 3 until 7 p.m. on Thursday Sept. 4 to register students and answer all questions. The first day of classes will be conducted in Romulus High School.

"The courses offered will be university accredited and applicable toward any degree. Credit and fees are exactly the same as if the student drove to Ypsilanti," he added.

"This is the first of a small effort. In the winter, we will increase the class schedule. In two years we hope to be in our own building located within the industrial/commercial development Mayor McAnally has proposed for the area between Wayne and Merriman roads," projected McKelvey.

Three classes offered this term will cater to the graduate student in education and a psychology course is offered to the undergraduate.

"The new facility will emphasize international trade, foreign languages and trade and tourism," stressed McKelvey. "The center would be located next to an international airport with easy accessibility to all of southeastern Michigan. It's an attractive situation we want to take advantage of.

"People from all over the country and the world can attend seminars in our facility. The intersection of I-94 and I-275 offers ready access to local residents," he said.

"The area would resemble a major research park similar to that in North Carolina and to a lesser extent in Ann Arbor. This is all part of the mayor's economic development plan for this area. I can't stress enough the mayor's involvement in this project," he said.

The second phase of the project will include a permanent site for the educational center with a regular staff. "We want to establish a presence here. As part of the third phase, we would like to offer parts of programs so students can complete areas of study under a full-time staff. This phase would all depend on funding. We are looking for a comfortable building with nice grounds. Eventually, we would like to offer many types of classes.

"It is a pleasure to be part of the development that mayor McAnally has in mind," he noted.

New ordinance covers more than topless entertainment

 By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

All topless dancers in Romulus, have less than 30 days to complete the necessary registration required by the newly adopted "Entertainer and/or Dancers Ordinance."

"The basic idea for the ordinance came from one of our detectives during the course of his investigation into alleged prostitution at the local massage parlor," stated Ronald Mack, a city attorney at a recent meeting of the members of the city council.

According to the ordinance, it will "provide for the licensing of entertainers and or dancers employed by commercial establishments providing adult entertainment characterized by an emphasis on sexual activities." The ordinance is specific with respect to certain sexual activities performed and anatomical areas revealed.

The ordinance will require the registration, "of certain employees of certain businesses considered by many to be naughty," continued Mack.

"The city of Romulus is on the beginning of growth and we want certain regulations in place. It's the responsible thing to do," added Mayor Beverly McAnally.

"The ordinance is well put together. Credit must be given to members of the police and ordinance departments for a good job," said Linda Choate, city clerk.

To obtain the license required, a dancer or entertainer, must be at least 18 years old, a U.S. citizen, list all criminal convictions other than traffic violations, provide a photo, fingerprints, a complete employment history, two previous addresses and a description of services to be provided.

The annual license costs $50 per dancer or entertainer.

Tom Nappo, owner of the Landing Strip Lounge at the corner of Shook and Goddard roads in "beautiful downtown Romulus," according to radio ads, is one of two such establishments located in the city. His business has operated there since 1977.

"I looked at the ordinance and my feelings are that it's a good idea. I have a good reputation and the people I employ are all what they should be. Business has steadily increased and Romulus is a good place to do business," said Nappo.

"We make sure our employees don't have a criminal record. I understand the ordinance was created because of problems with a massage parlor. There's a big difference between a massage parlor and a go-go bar. But we are more than that. Our entertainment is similar to a Las Vegas revue.

"The Liquor Control Commission says what we do is legal. They constantly watch us. So we have to do a good job. I really couldn't be more positive about the ordinance," concluded Nappo.

Fatal shot claims innocent youth

A 15-year-old Romulus youth fatally injured a 17-year-old Taylor resident while demonstrating a handgun which belonged to his father, according to police reports.

Paul Gregory Bysorick, 17, of Taylor was pronounced dead-on-arrival at Heritage Hospital in Taylor by Taylor Ambulance shortly after the accident which occurred on Northline Road near Harrison Road in Romulus about 6:40 p.m. last Wednesday. Police have labeled the shooting

"apparently accidental."

"It appeared to be an accident," said Lt. Ken Kraus of the Romulus Police Department. "While inside the house, these two kids were fooling around with several guns, showing each other how to load and unload, when the Romulus youth get an automatic handgun from his father's bedroom. The gun discharged and struck the 17-year-old in the upper part of his body. Only one shot was fired. There were no witnesses except the Romulus youth who immediately called for help and was visibly shaken when the officers arrived," reported Kraus.

Although the office of the Wayne County Medical Examiner refers to the death as a homicide, police emphasize the shooting "appears to be strictly accidental."

"It's a very unfortunate situation," said Kraus who would not identify the Romulus youth because of his age and the grief the family has already suffered. "Those apparently unloaded guns kill every time," he added.

romulus news in brief

A ROMULUS MAN was killed Friday afternoon when the the pick-up he was driving slammed into a truck on northbound I-275 near Ecorse Road.

Police identified the victim of the crash as Ronald Richard Hein, II, of 38126 Walnut Road.

A passenger in Hein's pick-up, Russel Allison, 23, also of Romulus, was listed in fair condition in the Westland Medical Center.

According to police reports, Hein was traveling northbound on I-275 about 3:45 p.m. when his vehicle rammed into the rear of a double-bottom gravel hauler. Police said that apparently the air pressure on the truck caused the brakes to lock and Hein's vehicle, traveling behind it, plowed into it.

Hein, 22, was pinned in his vehicle and was pronounced dead at the scene by a medical examiner. Police said the passenger "was very fortunate and lucky because he must have ducked just in time."

The fatal accident caused the Labor Day holiday traffic to "back-up" for miles and completely shut down the expressway for two hours, according to police.

"We had a busy holiday," said Davies, "and we had several other accidents, however, none of the others were noteworthy."

LEARN TO SQUARE DANCE at the Romulus Recreation Center, 36515 Bibbins, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 8. For information about the class call Shirley Webb at 721-6315. No experience is necessary and the first night is free.

THE ROMULUS ARTS Council has begun registration for tables at the annual Arts and Crafts Fair/Farmers Market. The event is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 13 in the parking lot of city hall, 11111 Wayne Road. Gloria Chandler of the council promises, "It's going to be one heck of an affair. Last year there were almost 40 local artists and crafters who participated." This year, the council expects more. For more information or table registration, please call 941-2678. Everyone is invited to participate.

Snake rattles neighbors

A poisonous baby rattlesnake escaped through a hole in its cage and slithered out of its Orchard Street home in southeast Romulus last Tuesday evening and is still at large, according to Romulus Animal Control Officer, Neil Jones.

"From our best determination, the snake was a small 1-foot-long baby rattlesnake. The owner recently brought it from up north and it was in the care of a neighbor when the escape occurred about 11:15 p.m. last Tuesday," Jones said.

After an hour-long search that evening and again the following morning, nearby neighbors were alerted of the situation and advised to keep their small children and pets inside.

The reptile resembles a diamondback rattlesnake, but the only poisonous snake native to Michigan, according to Jones, is the Mississauga rattlesnake.

The 20-year-old owner was apparently bitten by the snake within a day or two before the escape. When the owner attempted to obtain medical attention, the ordinance department was notified.

Jones advised residents not to catch any snake. "This time of year all snakes are very plentiful. They hibernate on cool nights and come out during the warm sunny days. It doesn't make any difference how long a rattlesnake is. They are just as deadly when they are hatched from the egg. There is no efficient way to bait or poison them. It's very possible we will locate the snake soon," said Jones with definite optimism.

Poisonous reptiles are not legally allowed in the city of Romulus, according to the ordinance.

A very dirty trick

Residents in Wayne have a new neighbor, and it appears that the newcomer is less than welcome in the city.

The new resident is an adult bookstore. Adult books, movies, peep shows, sexual aids and devices and drug paraphernalia are all a part of the inventory at this fledgling business, smack inside the city limits of one of the most wholesome locations in Wayne County.

Officials in the city did not have any idea that this type of business was opening in their town. They were under the distinct impression when permits for operation were granted that they were welcoming a video store which also would provide video recorder repairs and rentals. Wrong.

What the city got was a covert operation specifically designed to obtain permits for occupancy and operation under false pretenses. One would suspect from the position in which the city is left, that these businessmen had some clever and well-considered legal advice in their pursuit of the permits.

While citizens may be in an uproar, the tumult at city hall is even more vehement. From the office of the mayor, through the city manager and into the department of public service--there is consternation, anger, frustration and embarrassment.

The city council and administration officials were duped. There is no doubt about the circumstances surrounding the permits for the business. It is not what it was portrayed to be on the application, the blame for the opening of an establishment of this nature does not actually lie with the city.

All regular procedures were followed. Permits and applications are all in perfect order...there was no reason for anyone to suspect that this video store would be anything other than exactly that. The fact that the proprietors and operators obviously knew from the instigation of the process that this was the type of establishment it is was something the city officials had no way of knowing, or discovering.

Policies in Wayne regarding business openings and operations are certainly not too lenient...the men and women at city hall are some of the most prudent and caring in the area, and if there is any fault here, it rests solely with those who chose to misrepresent their intentions in order to begin a business they know is less than desirable in this community.

We would recommend that the irate citizens who are demanding action from city administrators and blaming elected officials for this new business take a moment to fully understand the process and procedures taken to protect them prior to this opening.

There is no way to legislate morality, and in fact, the freedom to operate a business of this nature or any other is guaranteed to us by our Constitution.

To establish a business, however, by using subterfuge, misrepresentation and guile is truly an insult not only to the city and the residents therein, but to our entire American way of life and government.

Political party?

Last week, Romulus City officials were more than slightly shocked to learn that a long-standing city policy was being questioned by at least one resident.

For years it has been the custom in Romulus to loan certain city-owned property to community groups for civic activities. Items such as picnic tables and barricades have been loaned to Kiwanis, St. Aloysius Polka Festival, Rotary functions and the Chamber of Commerce. Last week, when the local Democratic Club asked for the loan of city picnic tables, and they were available, approval was given and city workers hauled the items to a local backyard for a corn roast.

At least one resident was more than a little displeased with the action. He questioned not only the loan of the equipment, but the loan of city trucks and employees to do the moving, loading and unloading on city time.

He may have a point, but we would suggest that there has been no discrimination on the part of the city of Romulus or officials there. It appears that there has been no refusal to loan equipment or items to any group--no matter what the political leanings or sponsorship might be.

Rather than have accusations hurled regarding party politics, perhaps the citizens of Romulus should, as a majority, express their opinions on the matter. It seems that any of them would certainly be eligible to borrow the picnic tables, barricades or fences for any large group activity of a civic nature that they might plan. The items have been loaned for block parties and other community festivals and put to good use.

The city of Romulus, in our opinion, is demonstrating the type of community involvement and accessibility that is lacking in far too many areas today. The ability to borrow items from the city to promote good community spirit, join the residents together in a local activity or earn money for a charitable cause is the kind of small-town involvement and governmental participation that far too many have forgotten during the years of growth and industrial development.

Rather than criticize Romulus for this policy and practice, we applaud them. If the situation were different, and say the Democratic Corn Roast didn't get the tables but the Republican Hoedown did, then there is a problem. But it would seem that the city has been more than fair and equitable in the loaning of the items, and this we applaud.

As for the expense, it cannot be denied or ignored. But perhaps members of the city council and administration have placed a higher value on good community relations and involvement than the critics who complained about the loan.

Saving grace

"All that our ancestors will ever know about us, and the lives we live, will be learned from that which we leave behind." So says the Smithsonian Institute.

As Susan and I wandered the halls of the Museum of American History in Washington, D.C. recently, I began to reflect on all the Smithsonian has to tell us.

Artifacts of early American families spin a tale of the day-to-day existence our ancestors endured. After the audio-visual presentation, the museum invites visitors to wander through the exhibits, envisioning the daily lives of different families of markedly differing circumstances from centuries past.

I pondered the emotion the exhibits instilled in me, and began to wonder, exactly what is it our ancestors will know about us? They may find home movies, slides or recordings. They could find a diary, or they might find a copy of this column.

Most of us do not consciously think through the types of items we will leave as a thumb-nail look at our lives. We don't have a plan, it tends to happen...by grace.

It tends to be a matter of what, by chance, we may have kept from our childhood.... school papers, high school year books or scrapbooks. Perhaps we have a hobby that causes us to collect some manner of our works or savings. It may be woodworking pieces of our own craft, photographs we may have taken for the sake of art, rather than kids' birthday party or maybe it will be our very own baseball card collection.

Some may not wish to reveal their true nature to anyone. Henry Ford the II, or Hank the Deuce, spends hours destroying personal papers it has been reported. Others write or tape their thoughts, activities and philosophy in the hopes that these records might hold some small meaning for those who will follow.

By chance, I found a cassette tape the other day that my dad had recorded on his new tape recorder Christmas Day, 1964. As I listened in on a day in the history of the Willett clan, I thought about my dad, now deceased, as he joked and exchanged banter with other members of our tribe. As I listened to my mother, now in declining health, laugh and chatter, I saw in my mind's eye what was...and I remembered.

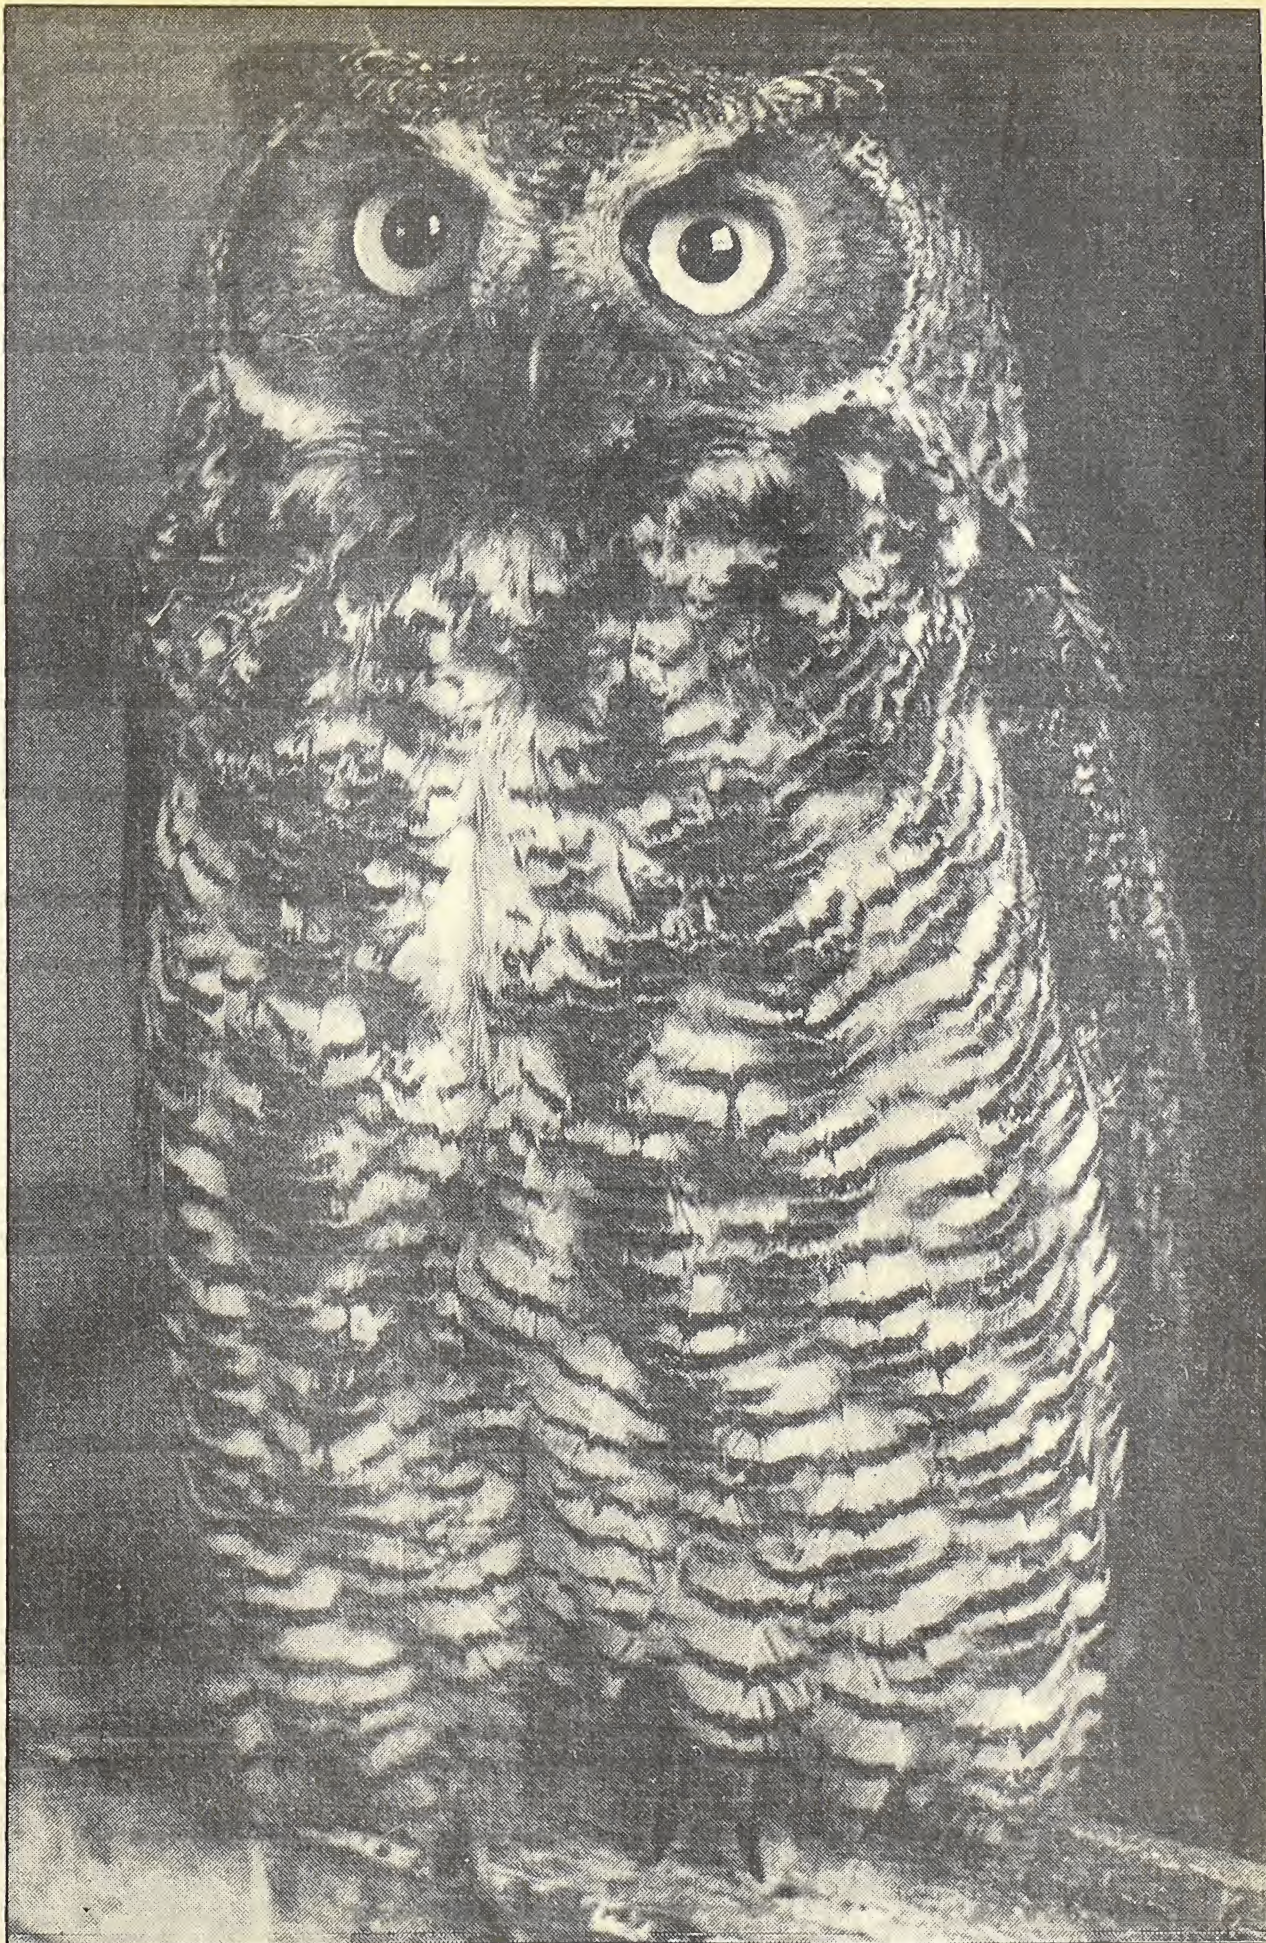

I have long been a saver of all manner of clippings, photos, recordings and legal documents. This I have done to a fault, and have worked for the last few years to lighten the burden which curses every saver. And yet, I know that it may very well be by the grace of my propensity for saving that one day my son, daughter or perhaps my grandchildren will be able to reflect and know what life was like in our time and circumstance.

Perhaps we should all consider, no matter how purposeless or trivial our life pursuits might seem to us, that we might need to hone our sense of history. Caring about the welfare, concerns or unanswered questions of those yet unborn may be a worthy endeavor to address and one that might give our life greater purpose and meaning.

It may only be by your saving grace that your descendants will know anything at all about you. It is after all, only in the minds of others that our lives can find meaning or purpose beyond our mortal existence.

See you next week.

Discrimination disputed

To the editor: I am writing in rebuttal of your news article of the racial discrimination suit against Kerr Manufacturing Company.

My husband and I are both employed at Kerr and we have never had any problems. Maybe it is because we do our jobs and cause no problems. There are no favorites when there are infractions of rules, the perpetrator of the rule in-fracted is disciplined accordingly. I am not saying that these people are unjustified in their complaint, what I am saying is be honest and tell the truth. If accusations are going to be made, let them be truths, and not bold face lines. Kerr is an equal opportunity employer and do their level best to treat their employees fairly. Where else do you get a $20 bonus for the 4th of July and a $50 bonus for Xmas? Kerr will also pay your tuition to go to school to further your education in a job-oriented field. They also pay a full days pay for every sick and personal day you do not use.

I have worked with some of the accusers, and some of their statements are unfounded. Some of these people have kept other people from doing their job, because they had to roam the hall or spend 30 to 45 minutes in the bathroom, come back to their job, stay for 15 minutes and call for relief again and be gone for another 30 to 45 minutes. I would say that these people have no complaint for disciplinary action.

If this is such a nice company to work for, why did these people stay? They could have found employment elsewhere. Why was the animosity shown to only these select nine, why not all of the minority races that also work at Kerr? Like the Spanish, Italian, Polish and Filipino? Why just these nine?

Why not come to Kerr and talk to the other 182 employees that work here and see what they have to say about the company? You have heard and printed the select nine's story, how about giving the other side equal space in your paper, or is our side not news worthy enough to sell papers? Give us a chance to defend this company, who cannot speak for itself. Names and lies were called and spoken, give us a chance to refute these untruths. Because of pending litigation, the company is unable to defend itself in print.

'Graveyard' workers enjoy the late shift

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Many dedicated souls who work the graveyard shift confess they really would rather only come out at night.

They may look average but these night owls maintain that more work gets done on their shift, the late night and wee morning hours, usually from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m., than any of the other two working shifts.

This especially holds true for employees on the night shift at Wayne County Metropolitan Airport in Romulus, according to Maintenance Manager Joseph Stepaniak and Operations Manager Tim Murphy. They give the phrase "fly by night" new meaning with an added twist.

Both men are relatively new in their positions and this shift although they are long-term airport employees. They moved to nights about three months ago when they were promoted.

"I like this shift," stated Stepaniak. "The first couple of weeks the body doesn't react like it should when the sun goes down. But we accomplish more on midnights when we don't have to put up with the congestion like during the day."

"With less volume, airport traffic slows down at night. Try to do anything during rush hour on a freeway. It just doesn't work," said Stepaniak, whose department prepares the runways for operation.

"You can't see everything at night but we service most of the roads into the terminals with repairs, patching and sweeping. You can't close down the runways at night. That's the time we cut the grass."

Tim Murphy says his department, among other things, maintains the electrical systems and oversees the cleaning contractors.

"The first day back from a weekend is a "killer," they both agree. "Our Sundays are most people's Monday. You can spend an afternoon with your family, but you have to slow before you come into work. Not many relatives want to convert to your schedule," conceded Murphy. "It does nothing for your love life. I don't look forward to being a newlywed," the engaged-to-be-married man added.

"To be honest," he said, "I hate midnights. The only reason I'm here is because of low seniority," he said of his nine years with the airport. Stepaniak has almost 17 years.

"My biggest problem occurs during the day when people call asking my political preference or if I want aluminum siding," said Murphy.

"I use an answering machine," added Stepaniak.

"It's really not that bad. Your weekends are longer because they begin Friday morning. You can transact business and because my wife works, I can watch our two little girls. If an emergency happens, you're there. Midnights give me the opportunity to spend more time with my wife and children. Midnights have eliminated our need for a babysitter," he said.

Murphy explained, "You never really develop a regular sleep pattern. You eye is always on the clock. It's a battle to make sure you're not late. One other thing, you have to get used to watching the Channel 50 news at 10 p.m."

"Let's have another cup of coffee" is part of the nightly routine. Murphy may drink up to six cups while Stepaniak drinks only a couple.

"Sometimes about 4 a.m., I can be like a zombie. As soon as the sun peaks out about 6 a.m., I perk right up," admitted Murphy who added there is never a dull moment and everybody is always busy with something to do on his shift because just when morning approaches and the body starts to drag, daytime runway operations begin in full swing.

As the morning sun rises, Metro Airport midnight supervisors, Tim Murphy and Joseph Stepaniak, have already earned their days pay. Now it's time to sleep. ANP photo by Bob Denys

Workers face social problems

"Night shift workers are never in sync with anyone else," according to Gene Hadwiger, psychotherapist at Woodcreek Counseling. "When others are just getting up or going to work, the night shift worker is ready to go to bed."

Most of the scheduled activities and social events center around the needs of day workers, he said, leaving the night-shift worker with feelings of isolation and loneliness. Consequently, he or she has difficulty in making or keeping friendships and also may tend to have more family problems.

"It is difficult for them to have friendships other than with other night shift workers," according to the psychotherapist.

"People who work an occasional late night don't have the same problems because they are able to fit into a regular social schedule and on their nights off, they have friends and family members that they can get together with. The night worker, on the other hand, may feel even more isolated on a day off because he may not have sustained friendships with any nine-tofivers. Also, he is not accustomed to attending on-going meetings or activities and may feel like an outsider on the one opportunity he has to attend."

Hadwiger has observed that night shift workers tend to be loners as a result of their "out of step" schedule and also tend to develop problems with drugs and alcohol. Incidentally, he said, Alcoholics Anonymous is one organization that has responded to the needs of the night shift worker with meetings in the early morning hours.

Midnights are a 'lifestyle'

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

"Midnights aren't just a lifestyle, they're an adventure," said Soc McCraight, after his eight-hour midnight shift as a cargo loader at Zantop International at Metro Airport.

He stopped by Flags Restaurant on Middlebelt Road in Romulus, to pick up his girl friend, Terrie Aldred of Romulus. She works as a waitress at the 24-hour business which she says caters to a variety of people from executive types to truckers.

"The atmosphere on midnights is different. I've worked this eight months and it's slow going. People think all we do is sit and drink coffee and smoke cigarettes. I like it but eventually would like to work days," said Aldred.

She feels because her boyfriend works the same shift, "It's better," she said. "We see each other more often. When he worked days, it was only now and then."

"Sleeping habits are hard to adjust. Sometimes you wake up late and rush in with your hair all messed, you can't help being cranky. But you have to change fast because nobody, your co-workers or customers, will tolerate it," she conceded.

Kathy Pruitt, a co-worker explained, "I've worked midnights before and here since September. I like them. I like the people and the atmosphere. I have no trouble sleeping during the day. We don't get the jam-packed crowds like during the day, but work is steady."

"Crowds at night are different. They are definitely louder and sometimes a bit rougher. We tell 'em to straighten up. There are a lot of county sheriffs who stop by and that helps," she noted.

"Midnights are lots of truckers and lots of coffees to go. Being a waitress is hard. You're on your feet all the time and they hurt. It's a relief to sit down. I've been a waitress for four years," said 19-year-old Aldred. "The tips aren't that bad. They're only okay. Waitresses take a lot of blame for things not their fault," she said.

Georgia and Zois Rodis, longtime restaurateurs, have owned Flags since May of this year. This is their first 24-hour endeavor. They were formerly in Southfield at the same location for 21 years.

"Waitresses on midnights do quite a bit," said Georgia Rodis. "But they work hard on all shifts," she added.

Midnight grocer would 'jump' for chance at new shift

By JOHN KIBILKO
ANP Staff Writer

Don't get him wrong. If he had his druthers, Ron Miller would rather work days. And if he gets the chance, he'll jump at the opportunity to change shifts. But for now, things have settled into a smooth routine for the Kroger employee who toils on the midnight shift.

Miller, along with his wife, Bev, has established a pattern which, while it might seem bizarre to an outsider, incorporates the strange working hours of two parents with three daughters age 10 to 15. It's not a "Father Knows Best" setting, but it seems to work for the Canton couple.

"It's got its advantages," Miller said of his schedule. "One thing - I don't have to get up for work at any time. I get off work at 9 o'clock (a.m.), get home at 9:15, make my breakfast, watch Dick Van Dyke and fall asleep. If I get six hours sleep, that's good. When I work a day schedule, I sleep a lot less usually."

Miller's situation is compounded by the fact that his wife also works nights on occasion. As an employee of Detroit Edison, Bev has spent days at a time on the job, often during inclement weather such as ice storms which down power lines. Such occasions mean that the three children are left alone for the night - something many parents simply would not do.

"They're used to it," Ron said. "They've done it. Things work out pretty smoothly."

"They're exceptional kids," Bev added. "Plus they're at an older age. They're not little children."

"They mind the rules when they're alone. They have phone numbers where to reach us in case of an emergency, and we've never had any problems."

While it might not be an idyllic setting, Ron said that one simply learns to adjust. Being creatures of habit, we humans tend to quickly adopt a set routine.

"I have no trouble sleeping during the day," Ron said. "I've got a pattern. I don't even walk in the house, and I start cooking my breakfast. By 9:30, I'm sitting in front of the TV eating my breakfast. After that, I watch a little more TV and fall asleep. I have the advantage of sleeping downstairs (where their bedroom is located), so it's nighttime as far as I'm concerned. I don't have any trouble."

One thing Ron is looking forward to is the resumption of the school year. As well as he says he sleep during the day, he admitted that a housefull of kids tends to disrupt even the most slumbersome sleep.

"I've got two more weeks," Ron said, counting the days. "They'll be in school all day, and I'll sleep a lot better. Not that it's that bad now, but I'll be guaranteed six hours sleep then."

"Our girls are great," Bev offered. "Whatever rules I set, they obey. When I say go to bed at this time, or don't stay up past this time, they do it. I've never known them not to obey."

Any other pluses to working the red-eye shift?

"During the school year, when I get home, there's nobody here," Ron said. "That's heaven. That's my favorite part of the day."

This unnamed beauty is the victim of a broken home. Her owners separated, and she became a ward of the animal shelter in Westland. She has been spayed and has reached her full-grown size of 7 pounds. If you might have a home for this one-year old tiger striped pet, more information about her and other animals is available at the shelter, 721-7300.

This little black and grey beauty is one of an unwanted litter of pups now awaiting adoption at the Westland Animal Shelter. At only 9 weeks of age, she already weighs in at 14 pounds, not surprising as her parents were Great Dane and Labrador Retriever. Her full grown weight is estimated at up to 75 pounds. She is presently considered thin by shelter workers, who also note that she is good with children and other animals. If you might have a home for this pup, more information is available at the shelter, 721-7300.

Holmes lands Omnicom cable position

By JOHN KIBILKO
ANP Staff Writer

Maria Holmes, as executive Producer for Omnicom cable, has grown accustomed to awards and accolades. A lot came her way when she was producing shows for the Canton-based cable firm. But now Holmes will move out of the limelight, although upward, with a promotion to Community Affairs and Program Director of Local Origination Programming.

Quite a hefty title. Will Holmes miss the adulation usually reserved for those in the production end of television?

"Yes and no," Holmes hedged. "Yes in the sense that you no longer have a tangible piece of work. But I've done that, and I'm satisfied with it. I can always do it again if I really want to and can find the time."

Holmes' new position will entail the overseeing of the production staff. It will be her job to determine what viewers see on Omnicom in the way of programming which originates at the station — talk shows, features, news, old movies. It's a step up, but also, in a sense, a step out.

"This is a newly acquired position as far as management," Holmes said. "I liked production. But as far as long-term goals, I'd like to be happy in what I'm doing. And I'm happy right now. I get a lot of satisfaction. As long as I'm growing in my job and can coordinate that with my family, I'll continue working."

Holmes leaves behind a host of honors accumulated in more than three years of production. The Eastern Michigan graduate won, among other awards, the Hometown Highlights Video Award for a student production, "Human Images." The Salvation Army presented Holmes its Humanitarian Award for her initiation of the "Baskets Filled with Love" food drive telethon. Holmes was also named "Young Careerist of 1986" by the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club.

Heady stuff for a young woman. But Holmes keeps everything in perspective.

"All my thoughts are in fulfilling this job," Holmes declared. "I never really thought of cable (as a career possibility) in college. I kind of fell into it. But I love it."

Holmes "fell" into cable when she applied for an internship at Omnicom while still at EMU. She also did a stint with the defunct "Sonya" show on WDIV. Holmes has no trouble deciding which medium she prefers — cable or network TV.

"There's a big difference," Holmes said of her two experiences. "The pace of network TV is much faster. Mistakes have to be fewer. You get fired faster. Cable offers more diversity. You can do everything. At networks, they want everyone to do one thing."

"Here, the pace is slower, although you wouldn't think so! It's a pace I can live with my family."

Holmes' family consists of her husband, Solomon, and 2-year-old daughter, Karissa. The 1977 graduate of Willow Run High School now makes her home in Ypsilanti, where she grew up. The pace suits her just fine for the time being.

"I don't know if I'll always stay in cable," Holmes concluded. "But I know I'm happy right now. I've worked hard and accomplished a lot in the years I've been here and I'm looking forward to the new challenge this position offers me."

SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFITS are not payable for the month a beneficiary dies, officials from the Inkster Social Security office said recently. The benefit check, which is usually received on the third day of each month, represents the benefit payable for the previous month. Therefore, if a person dies in July, for example, the check that is received Aug. 3 should be returned, the spokesmen for the Social Security Administration explained. However, if a check is made out jointly to both the husband and the wife, the survivor should contact a Social Security office to find out whether the check should be cashed.

Local retailer vows to fight ripoffs

By JOHN KIBILKO
ANP Staff Writer

Joe Gagnon is sick and tired of rip-off artists giving the appliance service industry a black eye, and he's initiated a one-man crusade to rid his industry of shysters who cost Michigan consumers millions of dollars annually in inflated and unnecessary service charges.

"It's going haywire, absolutely rampant," Gagnon said of the appliance repair industry. Gagnon, owner of Carmack Home Appliance Center on Ford Road in Garden City, said that the number of appliance service businesses in Metro Detroit is growing at an alarming rate.

"The appliance service industry has doubled in the past five years," Gagnon said. "And I project the figure to double again in five years - unless action is taken by government."

Gagnon's business, which he purchased in 1979, caters to do-it-yourself customers. The consumer advocate is not beyond talking customers out of unneeded repairs and parts purchases, and gladly gives advice over the phone on how to repair appliances. Gagnon sees no conflict of interest in such an approach to business.

"Being in business is not always take, take, take," Gagnon explained. "You've gotta give some back. I've never had a complaint of the rip-off nature. We all make mistakes. I've had people come in and say 'You fixed this last week and now it doesn't work.' Fine. I'll go back out and fix it."

Gagnon began his personal cleaning up of the appliance service industry because he was tired of the negative reactions he got whenever he mentioned that he was in the appliance business. His goal is to get legislation passed which would protect Michigan consumers from crooked repairmen, who he said abound in the Detroit area.

"There's approximately 500 (appliance repair shops) in Detroit," Gagnon said. "That's just too many. So many times a person can do the repairs themselves."

Gagnon, along with cohort Ed Soulliere, currently hosts a radio show on WCAR. "The Appliance Doctor" first aired in September of 1985 and the twice-a-week call-in show has been a hit since the first day. Gagnon also does a two-hour guest spot twice a month on WAAM in Ann Arbor. Gagnon has also appeared on Kelly and Company, everywhere he goes, the message is the same - buyers beware.

Gagnon uses a California law passed in 1963 as a model for the type of legislation he hopes to get passed in Michigan. The California organization, Bureau of Electronic and Appliance Repair, requires all the registration of all electronics and appliance dealers with the state. A nine-person board, including five lay people, monitors service and responds to complaints. Criminal prosecution can be brought against any business which refuses to register after being notified, and the organization checks Yellow Pages ads, newspaper ads, follows up on consumer complaints and performs random inspections.

Gagnon points to a lack of such an organization as potentially lethal to the Michigan service industry. Organizations such as the Better Business Bureau simply can't do the job, according to Gagnon.

"The Better Business Bureau isn't malicious," Gagnon said. "They've just taken on more than they can handle."

Gagnon explained that companies reported to the BBB for potential violations often "resolve" matters - after the damage has been done.

"Complaints are 'resolved' by companies by, for example, giving a customer back $150 after overcharging them," Gagnon chagrined. "What's happening is they rip-off, rip-off, rip-off, then when they get caught, they give the money back. That's resolving a complaint?"

Gagnon has appeared in court several times as an expert witness in cases involving appliance repair fraud. According to Gagnon, he's yet to lose a case and has three more pending. Currently, he has been in consultation with the state Attorney General's Office in a case which the state has against a service company. He is also a consultant to Esther Shapiro's Consumer Affairs Department. But his work has just begun, according to Gagnon.

"We've just scratched the surface," Gagnon admitted. "What I'd really like to do is get a lot more people involved. That would be better than one head doing all the work."

The Federal Reserve Banks current monetary policy at times may seem confusing. However, it must be remembered, the Fed has many goals - some short term, some long term. The Fed's current policy, while having an impact on the current economy, may be looking forward to January 1, 1987. This is the proposed active day of the new tax laws. Some confusion and disappointment can be expected in the final bill, and the Fed may be taking steps to assure market impact will be minimal.

Psychic to give forecasts

By JOAN MARY DYER
ANP Staff Writer

Beginning with this edition, astrologist-psyche Rosemary Near will start each month with predictions and insights for each of the signs of the Zodiac.

A popular radio personality for the past three years, Near has hosted an hour-long astrological forecast program at 10 a.m. each weekday on W-CAR plus a Thursday show at noon which focuses on astrological advice and dream interpretations. Her advice includes insights into romantic, financial, career and health concerns.

She has also written columns on astrology for Business Profile and Prelude magazines. Near does personal in-depth analysis at Merlin's Corner, 1948 Ford Ave., Wyandotte. The metaphysical resource center carries books, tapes and gifts and has various psychic and astrological readers plus classes.

Near takes a no-nonsense approach to her astrological and psychic predictions, reminding her clients and readers that the final decisions and choices remain with them. The predictions are to be used as "road maps" and guidelines, she said, with personal intervention possible to avoid the pitfalls that could occur. She emphasizes her belief that individuals can make their own choices and are responsible for their own behaviors.

“Near sees the month as a time of “plenty of employment for anyone who wants to work.”

In a general prediction for September, Near sees the month as a time of “plenty of employment for anyone who wants to work.” She also sees a “weeding out” of persons from the social service system who do not need assistance.

In her general outlook for September, Near sees some rough weather conditions at the end of the month and suggests a “Plan B” when scheduling outdoor events.

Earlier in the year, she predicted that two eclipses in October may trigger changes in partnerships and relationships of all kinds. She sees November as highlighting humanitarianism and December as a time when “locked shut minds” will be rattled.

Near also looks ahead to New Year's Eve as a “very special day and evening” with consciousness raising where barriers will be healed between various differing groups.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Early September emphasis is benefits and wonderfulness in your work areas. You may have a secret friend at work who remains undercover, but is trying to help you. Relationships are being looked at in a new way, and adjustments are made. Later, around the full moon on the 18th, you may find that skills and knowledge must be updated for your work.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

The first part of September, you may be taking another look at your relationships and the role you play in those people's lives. If anyone is limiting you, or restricting personal freedom, you may find yourself very resistant. The full moon on the 18th gives you high energy, and spontaneous social activity, but do be careful of alcohol and such.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 21)

Home situations are resolved and work starts to benefit as a direct result, with the new moon around the fourth. Later in the month, funding, grants, loans, etc., will be coming through. End any clandestine involvements to make life go smooth again.

CANCER (June 22 - July 22)

Some good news arrives in the month concerning work, health, or benefits. Contact those who can work with you on those pet projects. The full moon may see paperwork breakthroughs or legal snafu cleared up. Make sure you don't jump to conclusions about it. You could misinterpret it entirely.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)

You're on the right track now, Leo, especially where finances and investments are concerned. A little creative energy goes well here. It all becomes finalized and activated around the full moon on the 22nd.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)

New moon in you sun sign indicates all kinds of new beginnings! A move can be part of this, and a change with in a very important relationship, too. The full moon on the 22nd will be another important change period. This is all for your own highest good. See it from that perspective, and don't resist these changes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 23)

New moon in your solar 12th house indicates a high psychic period around the fourth. You may not want to socialize much, your sensitivity may be too high. It's an excellent time for creative writing, meditation, art or music. You'll be able to “read” yourself by the creative things you do during this time!

(See HOROSCOPES, page B-8)

Whether you are a dedicated star-gazer or you don't know a Libra from a Leo, you may find interesting insights for the coming month from Rosemary Near. The astrologist-psyche will submit horoscope readings on what to look for or look out for during the coming weeks on the first Wednesday of each month, beginning with this edition.

A PERSONAL INVITATION from Rosemary Near

Flop a fluffy 'blini' for a buttery breakfast

BY CHEF LARRY JANES
ANP Special Writer

For every meal, every course, from appetizer to dessert, there's a pancake.

A traveler could circle the globe and find some form of this international favorite - in sizes as small as quarters and almost as big as manhole covers - stacked for breakfast, glorified for dessert, stuffed for entrees, rolled and sliced for hors d'oeuvres.

Call them hotcakes. Call them crepes. Call them blini. Call them palacsintak. Call them pfannkuche. They're all pancakes.

Pancakes are much closer to man's original bread than our baked loaves. It was on hot stones set before the hearth fire that simple "ashcakes" of ground cereal and liquid were baked in the days of the cave-men. Can you imagine what the poor souls had to go through to get syrup or honey?

Today's pancakes are a fluffy, tender, civilized version of an ancient bread.

Pancakes have been known to be intertwined with religion, tradition and legend. Jewish people eat them on their holidays like Hanukkah and Passover.

In early Christian days, when Lent was a time of abstinence from meat as well as from animal foods like milk, cheese and eggs, pancakes became a treat for the day before the beginning of Lent. Shrove Tuesday pancakes are still eaten in many countries, and in England, Shrove Tuesday is often called "pancake day."

Let's not forget about the old North American legend Paul Bunyan who supposedly needed a grill with a corral around it and grain elevators to hold the flour. Concrete mixers were said to have churned the batter which emerged in 4 foot waves onto the griddle greased by cooks who skated over it with slabs of bacon tied to their feet. (Sounds like some of the Janes' clan at the last family reunion!) of the Janes' clan at the last family reunion!)

There are many different ways to cook pancakes. Basically, all start with a batter using flour, butter, eggs and milk. Taste and texture difference begin with the addition or omission of a leavening agent such as yeast baking soda or baking powder. Should you prefer to use yeast, it would be best to allow the batter to "ripen" for at least six to eight hours before beginning to cook. Personally speaking, I think the lightest pancakes are achieved by the separation of the egg yolk from the egg white with the yolk being beaten into the batter and the white being beaten separately until still but not dry, then gently folding the white into the batter and pouring immediately onto a hot, greased griddle.

A secret tip used by the great chefs before beginning to cook their favorite pancakes is heating up the griddle or frypan from the start with a small amount of grease and/or butter to coat the pan bottom. After the pan is heated significantly, pour out the grease, wipe with a clean cloth and add more fresh grease or butter and heat accordingly.

Then, just before the pan begins to smoke, add your batter. Always throw out your first as it only begins the seasoning of the pan and collects too much of the pan taste. Then, repeat with the grease and you're in business.

Stuffing them, rolling them or whatever...I love them! Try these recipes and you'll find out that pancakes aren't just for breakfast anymore!

Bon Appetit!

CANADIAN MAPLE
PANCAKES
(Serves 4)

- 1 cup flour, sifted
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 egg, lightly beaten

- 3/4 cup milk
- 1 1/2 tablespoon melted butter
- 1/2 teaspoon maple extract
- 2 cups applesauce, warmed
- 1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped stiff
- 6 teaspoons maple sugar

Sift together the dry ingredients. In another bowl, combine the egg, milk, butter and maple extract. Make a hollow in the flour and pour in the liquids, beating thoroughly to remove all the lumps. Heat a heavy griddle or large cast iron skillet and coat the surface with a thin film of melted butter. When hot, pour on 2 tablespoons of batter for each pancake and when the surface bubbles, flip and brown. Top with warmed applesauce, whipped cream and sprinkle with maple sugar.

BUTTERMILK PANCAKES
(Makes about 12)

- 1 egg
- 1 1/2 cup buttermilk
- 1 1/2 cups all purpose flour
- 1/4 cup melted butter/margarine
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- dash salt

Combine all ingredients and beat well to get rid of any lumps. Heat griddle, grease lightly, use about 1/4 cup batter for each pancake.

NALESNIKI
(Polish pancakes)

- 3/4 cup milk, warmed slightly
- 1 egg yolk, lightly beaten
- 1 cup flour, sifted
- 1 tablespoon melted butter/margarine
- 1/8 teaspoon dry yeast

- 2 tablespoons lukewarm water
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- dash salt
- 1 egg white, beaten stiff

Mix flour and egg yolk. Stir in the milk and melted butter. soften yeast in the water add yeast, sugar and salt to the batter; mix thoroughly. Cover and let stand in a warm place for 8-12 hours or overnight. When ready to make pancakes, stir batter and fold in beaten egg white. Heat a heavy griddle over medium heat, coat surface with melted butter. cook until bubbly, then flip. Fill a mixture of:

- 6 ounces of cream cheese
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1/2 cup strawberry preserves

Combine and mix well. Mama Janes' variation: Omit the sugar in the recipe and fill pancakes with sauerkraut and top with a dollop of sour cream.

CHINESE PANCAKES
(Chun Quen)

- 1/2 cup sifted flour
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- dash salt
- 1 egg
- 1 cup water

Sift together flour, cornstarch and salt. Beat eggs with the water and gradually add the flour, beating thoroughly. Heat a skillet with a thin coating of butter. When hot, pour 3 tablespoons of batter in center and tilt to cover the bottom of the skillet. When golden brown on underside only, transfer without flipping to paper towels and set aside. Make your favorite filling using pork, bamboo shoots, water chestnuts, scallion tops, tiny shrimps and soy sauce. Roll like an egg roll.

DANISH AGGEKAGE
PANCAKES

- 1/2 pound very lean bacon strips
- 6 eggs
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh chives

In a heavy skillet, crisp bacon slices. Drain on paper towels and keep bacon warm. Meanwhile, drain all but 2 tablespoons of the bacon grease from the skillet. Beat eggs until light and fluffy. Add milk and salt; continue beating and sprinkle in the flour. Reheat the skillet with reserved bacon grease and pour in the batter, tilting the skillet so that the batter covers the entire surface. Turn heat to low. Cook. Until batter is firm, like a custard, about 15 minutes. Sprinkle with chives and garnish with bacon slices. Cut in wedges and serve hot.

MOLASSES CANDY

- 4 cups sugar
- 2 cups molasses
- 1/2 cup vinegar

Boil until it crisps in cold water, then stir in 1 tablespoon baking soda and pour into well-buttered dishes. Leave until sufficiently cool and then pull.

One of the most popular programs to be instituted by state government in recent years is the Business Ombudsman's office which was created by Gov. Blanchard in November, 1983.

Now entering the third year of operation, the office has passed the 20,000 mark in the number of businesses it has helped. The Ombudsman began fielding calls from businesses throughout the state in January, 1984. The object of the office is to make state government work better with employers across Michigan.

The office is charged with assisting in cutting government red tape, acting as a "one-stop" permit center and mediating disputes over enforcement of state rules and regulations affecting businesses.

Current Ombudsman Dick Allen has said the majority of calls have been from companies needing help in finding and filling out government forms. Allen feels that Michigan businesses are using the office to guide them through a bureaucracy that can sometimes be confusing and intimidating.

When a business contacts the Ombudsman's office, the staff immediately goes to work on the business' behalf. The goal of the office is to respond to every call for assistance within 72 hours and, that goal has been met continuously since the office was created.

Initially, there was great skepticism about having a government office claiming to be an advocate for business. But in the three years since the office was formed, the skepticism has been eliminated. The Ombudsman's office has proven to be a government program that works well with private enterprise.

While the Ombudsman was initially expected to act as a "one-stop" center for businesses in need of government permits and forms, the position has evolved into much more than that. Ombudsman Allen, a former state senator, now acts as a liaison for the business community in making recommendations for improving the state business climate.

The Ombudsman advises the governor, the Legislature, and the various state agencies on possible changes that might streamline some of Michigan business "red-tape" or eliminate it all together.

The Business Ombudsman is a problem solver, an advocate in Lansing, an assistant in finding one's way through the bureaucracy and, most of all, a friend to Michigan business.

Businesses seeking assistance from the Ombudsman can contact the office, toll free, at 1-800-232-2727 during regular business hours.

The united ages of our of the company including Mrs. C. who was the youngest was 318 years, Mrs. Ford being 84, Grandma Smith 82, Mrs. Cooper 77. Their combined weight was 451 pounds, Mrs. Ford 122, Mrs. Cooper 115, Grandma Smith 114, Mrs. Carpenter 100. A very enjoyable time was had.

J. German showed us, the other day, a root of Prickly Comfrey which grew on the farm of Wm. Atyeo in Sumpter which had 20 leaves on it from one month's growth. The juice is a sweet syrup and the plant is a better food for stock than garden cabbage. It is the best food that has been introduced for years and has a glorious future when it becomes better known. In some places people use it in the place of tobacco.

'Changing times'

2 new coaches, new teams to debut in local conferences

Some things just don't change, like Westland John Glenn labeled as the team to beat in their conference.

Like Plymouth Canton and Belleville struggling to lift themselves out from the depths of their respective league cellars.

But, believe us, times are changing. There are two new coaches in the area; new alignments of old conference rivals and the end of an era for the Spartans of Cherry Hill who are now history.

First, let's look at the Suburban Athletic Conference. The SAC has just picked up another member...and it's not Romulus. It's Oak Park, former affiliate of the now defunct Metro West.

In Oak Park, the SAC will find a worthy opponent. The SAC has increased its numbers over the years, adding Willow Run in recent years to its charter members of Highland Park, Dearborn Heights Robichaud, Inkster, Willow Run, Ecorse and River Rouge.

The young Wolverine 'A' Conference has also increased in size thanks to the admission to its ranks of former Tri-River Conference power, Southgate.

And, Romulus, an independent for years, has found a home in the tough South Central Conference where it will be competing against the likes of Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor Huron, Ann Arbor Pioneer and Adrian.

However because of scheduling and rescheduling difficulties, the Eagles won't be playing for the title this year, pointed out Lowell Johnson, the high school's athletic director.

"Because football and basketball scheduling is done a few years in advance, we won't be in the South Central in football or basketball until the next school year," Johnson said. "It's really going to be a tough league and we look forward to the conference because it will upgrade all of our activities."

Belleville and Canton, two teams that failed to find the winning column last year in football, hope to turn the tide with new coaches.

Belleville has imported from Florida Dave McCarney, a familiar face in this area. McCarney served as an assistant to Michael Colletta, former Belleville High coach, now athletic director, before leaving for the warmer climates of the south.

Canton has promoted Robert Khoenle to the head coaching position after serving as an assistant to former skipper, Richard Barr. Khoenle's main task, for now, he says is to "change attitudes and get people to think like winners."

The year - 1986 - also is a first in that Cherry Hill won't be fielding any teams. The school district dissolved and merged with the Wayne-Westland schools, scattering its athletes and students to Dearborn Heights Crestwood, Westland John Glenn and to Wayne Memorial.

McCarney will get his first test for the defending Western Lakes Conference champs, Glenn, and he'll find that the Rockets are equal (and some say) better than last year's 9-0 club. McCarney and the Tigers will host the 7:30 Friday night game.

Romulus also is at home Friday night, clashing with former Metro-West Conference rival, Taylor Truman, while Wayne Memorial runs up against Garden City also on the home turf.

Other Friday night games include Willow Run at Plymouth Canton; Trenton at Plymouth Salem; Sterling Heights at Livonia Churchill; and Detroit Country Day at Dearborn Heights Robichaud at 4 p.m.

Inkster's Vikings will set sail for the 1986 Suburban Athletic Conference championship but they will have to overcome perennial powers Highland Park and Dearborn Heights Robichaud to reach shore with the coveted loot. It also appears that this is the last Viking ship that A.C. James will guide. He says he may bow out as the skipper at the end of the season because of increased administrative duties.

Wayne driver is Flat Rock winner

Wayne auto racer Chuck Silva was a heat winner at the 12th annual Howard Williams Memorial ARCA Late Models competition last weekend at Flat Rock Speedway.

But, it was Dave Kuhlman who hauled off $1,000 after winning the 50-lap ARCA late model feature as Jim Selmi topped the street stocks and Bob Studt the figure -8s in Saturday night's racing.

Kuhlman's 8th feature win of the 1986 gives him 14 career Flat Rock late model feature victories, tying him with 1978 and 1980 track champ Dick Barker for fourth on the all-time list behind Joy Fair, Harold Cook and Danny Byrd.

Starting from the 10th after posting fast qualifying time for the 15th consecutive time this season, Kuhlman took the lead on lap 12 from Steve Bunge.

Bunge regained the lead in lapped traffic, but Kuhlman retook the front spot on lap 17 for good. Ray Barnard and Chuck Silva waged a race-long battle for second, with Barnard prevailing at the checker with Silva finishing third, Al Spitz 4th and Marvin Gore fifth.

Inkster coach James may step down

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

This could be A.C. James's last football campaign.

The veteran Inkster High head coach says that he will probably be stepping down at the end of the season because of increased administrative duties. James also serves as the athletic director at the high school.

"The work load has increased," James said, "and football demands a lot of attention. You can't sacrifice one for the other, so I'm going to have to make some decisions."

With 14 returning lettermen, James would like nothing more than to wrap up his decade of coaching with a Suburban Athletic Conference championship. Inkster has never won a SAC grid crown.

"But, you got to look at things realistically. Highland Park has most of its kids back, and Robichaud has a lot of talent. And these kids aren't showing me anything, anyway."

"These kids", however, always seem to surprise. Last year they weren't supposed to win a game, but managed to post a winning season, finishing 5-4 on the year.

With all-SAC quarterback, William Knox, returning to the line-up the Vikings have an athlete runner-passer who knows his way around the conference. The 5-9, 165-pound senior passed for eight TDs a year ago and was as elusive as an eel.

The Inkster offensive backfield has a veteran look thanks to the return of Shawn Hayes, a 6-2, 190-pound tailback and another stand-out, Antonio Anderson, a 6-3, 195-pound senior who is an offensive guard and the monster on defense is being labeled as the "mainstay of the line".

"We need to get exceptional mileage out of him in order for us to stay with the others in this league this year," James said.

Others whom the Viking staff are looking for to contribute this year are: T.C. Wynn, a 6-0, 165-pound senior split end who hauled in three TD catches last year and will be used at end and also be the back-up QB; Angelo Taylor, also a split end and the leading pass receiver, and Terrance Donald, a 6-2, 185 pound guard along with Clifford Taylor, 5-10, 175 center-tackle, are other notables.

The Vikings also will have the services of Andre Davis, a flanker with excellent speed and hands who, at 6-5, is present" that he will not soon forget.

Three other starting candidates include Robert Kyle, a 6-3, 220-pound tackle; Lorenzo Terrell, a fullback who can be switched to tailback and James Thomas, a 5-9, 160-pound line-backer-fullback just could tip the scales to provide James with a "going-away

The 1986 Patriots are ready to go

Although most coaches are looking at defending conference champ, Westland John Glenn to retain its Western Lakes Activities Conference football title, they are also looking at Livonia Franklin (above) as the "sleepers" in the league this year. Coach Armand Vigna's Patriots are coming off of a 4-5 season, and have a lot of talent and tradition going for them.

'Sleepers?'

Franklin a threat to Glenn's grid throne

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Fordson. Livonia Stevenson. Farmington Harrison. That's what Livonia Franklin head coach Armand Vigna is looking at on the eve of the 1986 high school football season. Two of the Patriots' first three opponents have recently won state championships and Stevenson has always been a thorn in Vigna's sides. "None of those three is soft," noted Vigna who is entering his 29 year in coaching - his 12th as head coach at Franklin. "Those first three games are good indicators what this team and our staff can expect this season."

Franklin starts one day later than most of the area teams, beginning the 1986 campaign Saturday on the road at Fordson. Kick off is 1 p.m.

Of the Tractors Vigna would only say, that they are always tough. And there is no indication at all that this year's team is an exception."

The Patriots posted a 4-5 over-all for their efforts last year and the coach admits "it was a disappointing season for him, his staff and the team."

"We had the opportunity to win more games, but we just weren't tough enough," Vigna said.

The Pats have outstanding talent in Kevin Donaldson, a 6-4, 250-pound athlete who can handle about any assignment the coach gives him. He'll be a defensive linesman, for now. The Pats' defensive ends are in the names of Jim Block, a 6-0, 190-pound outside linebacker, and 5-10, 170-pound junior safety, Jon Spesiak, and the Pats may just have one of the best alignments in the area.

Quarterbacking and running backs - that is, the offensive backfield, is a major concern. Vigna is rebuilding and hoping that Popp can follow in the foot-good hands thanks to two senior returnees - Jeff Kroll, 6-1, 195-pounds and Tim Brahmer, 6-0, 206-pounds while the linebacking corps is solid with experienced players Chris Parenti (6-3, 212) and Matt Moritz (5-8, 170) back in the fold. Three year starter Mark Kertet, a 6-0, 185 pounder and cornerback Chris Popp (5-7, 160) are other reasons why Vigna believes thatg "defense is the heart of this team. We have an experienced crew."

Franklin coach

Add to that impressive list steps of older brother Rich, who led the Patriots a few years ago and is presently quarterbacking the Wayne State University's Tartars.

In 1975, the first year of state football tournaments were conducted, Livonia Franklin emerged as the inaugural Class A state champ.

Vigna says he isn't living in the past. "But, I believe we can play defense with anyone. It's the offense that will decide just how good and how far this team will go."

This could be the year of the Romulus Eagles

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus has the best chance of breaking out of its football doldrums this year than in any previous year.

Norb Glover is eager to start his fifth season as head coach of the Eagles which will begin Friday night at home against Taylor Truman.

"We're excited about the potential of this team," Glover said on the eve of the 1986 campaign. "We are working hard. The kids have the right attitude and I believe this is a 'turn around year' for us."

Glancing over the Romulus roster it's easily understandable why Glover, his staff and the Eagles are eager for battle. They have a cadre of seasoned players like co-captain Steve Anderson, a 6-2, 250-pound tackle, and Trevor Asher, who checks in at 6-3, 240, at the other tackle slot and they, alone, give credence to the inevitability that Romulus will be tough.

Taking another look at the line one quickly notes that the returning guard Ron Murawski stands 6-0, 215 and his mate on the other side of the line is a bit smaller - but not by much - Alex Rogers is 5-11 and 180, and Alex has to fight for starting recognition because Remon Nelson also covets the post.

Center Chris Cox also has college-bound written all over him. He's 6-1, 200-pounds.

Finishing with a 4-5 won-lost record a year ago, but with a third of the Metro-West Conference, the Eagles are sailing into new and treacherous South Central Conference waters where they will find it rough and tough because of Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor Huron and Pioneer. (However, although they will test Ypsilanti this year, they aren't scheduled to meet the two Ann Arbor schools this year.)

The offense needs a fine tuning and Glover has a fine looking athlete in returning quarterback Luther Shannan to lead the way. A 6-1, 180-pound sophomore, Glover points out that his field general "is a threat at all times. Can pass and run well."

Shannon has two-year letterwinner Victor Hicks at his flank at fullback, while John Morris, a 5-11, 182 senior is being groomed as a running back and halfback who should develop into the team's leading rusher, if fate should deem it so.

Look for two others, Michael Ross, a senior, 160-pounds, and Derrick Anderson, a 5-9, 170-pound junior, to also see a lot of action with the ball this season.

Wide receiver Anthony Russell, who has 4.4 speed and had seven TD receptions to his credit a year ago, should be even more productive this year and tight end Jason Williams, a 6-3, 185-pounder is looking good. "Our staff has a lot of faith in Jason. We believe he is going to develop into a team leader," said Glover.

There are some strange opponents on this year's Romulus scheduled. They haven't appeared there before. Southgate Anderson (Sept.) has jumped from the Tri-River Conference to hitch its destiny to that of a superior conference, the Wolverine "A" and Detroit Cooley, from the PSL, are newcomers to the Eagle schedule.

Must remain injury shy

Romulus coach Norb Glover has a hard core nucleus of returning lettermen who could produce the finest over-all record in the school's recent history...however, the Eagles must shy away from injuries.

Salem should be in winning form again

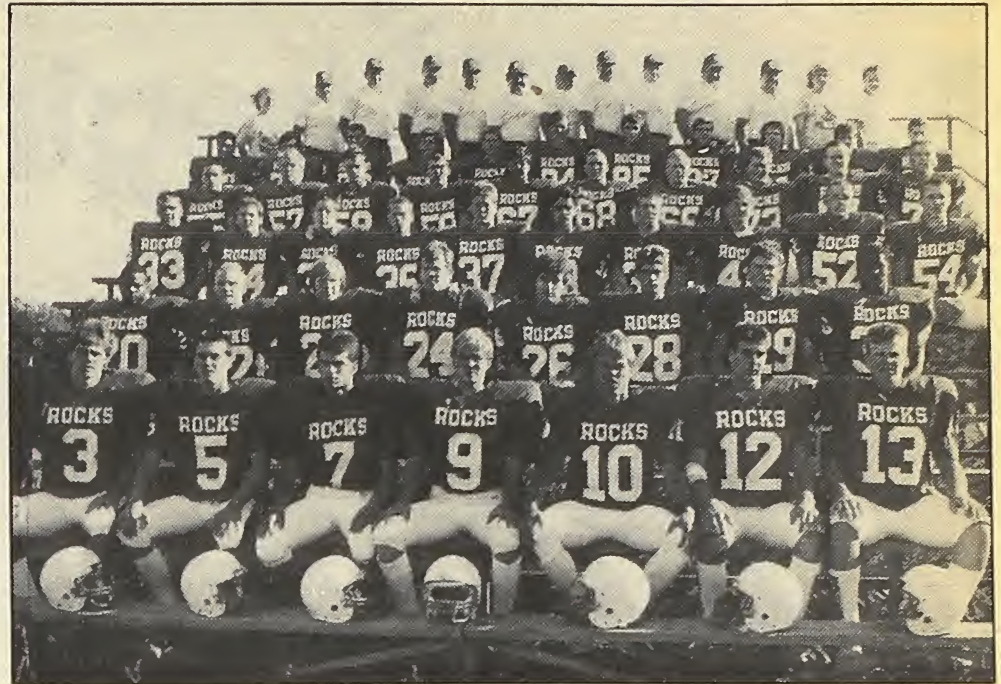

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Plymouth Salem should return to winning form in 1986. All indications are that Tom Moshimer's Rocks, who struggled through a 3-6 campaign a year ago, have the manpower that could carry them to the top of the expanded Western Lakes Activities Conference.

"Glenn is loaded and I believe Franklin will be right there," said Moshimer as he prepares his team for battle. Then, they say Churchill and Northville are also loaded this year. It looks like a real dogfight and we are definitely going to be better."

Senior co-captain Joe Jouppi, a 6-2, 205-pound senior, returns to the offensive backfield as one of the running backs. He should be awesome as a linebacker. In fact, Jouppi has the credentials of a major college player and rest assure college scouts will have their eyes on him this season. Though the rest of the backfield has been decimated by graduation, 5-9, 185 Jerry Sumner, and Leonard Bowe, a 5-6, 205-pound senior are working to fill the full-back slots while Doug Prager, a 5-9, 159-pound quick-footed running back should help to tilt the scoreboard in the Rocks' favor.

Moshimer and his staff are looking for Chris Hill, a back-up quarter-

'The first two games—against Trenton and Livonia Churchill—will tell us a lot of this team's make-up. We have a tough road ahead, but we have some experienced players to help take us over the rough edges.'

How better, coach?

"I really don't know, Moshimer replied. "But we will be an improved club."

Although Moshimer is non-committal, most coaches in the league rank the Rocks among the best, if not the best in the conference this season. For good reason.

back and wide receiver last year, as the full-time QB. "He's got a lot to learn," Moshimer notes. "and time will tell." In Hill's shadow are two other candidates - Steve Holt (5-10, 165) and Kurt Brinell (6-1, 175).

And Garrett Bowie, a 5-9, 165-pound junior, is also hoping to muscle his way into a starting halfback and defensive halfback role.

"We are small," says Moshimer, "and I feel that defense will be our forte this year."

Others who should stand out in the Salem campaign this year include: Kurt Urban, a 6-1, 185 center who has been designated as one of the co-captains; David Frigerio, a 5-11, 175-pound senior who should start at a guard or tackle slot; Adam Aldrin and Jay Blaylock, who should alternate as tackles. Jim Lamb and Romolo Maura, who is 6-2, 210, and a junior are other linemen.

Defense will be the Rock's strong point thanks to Richard Johnson, the 6-4, 240 pound senior tackle, who will have Urban and David Frigerio, alongside to help form the nucleus.

Salem's first two tests could well decide what the Rocks are made of this year.

"The first two games will tell us a lot, wouldn't you say?" Moshimer asked.

We don't know if the question was rhetorical or not.

But, you'd have to agree - they will.

New coach, concepts at Canton

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

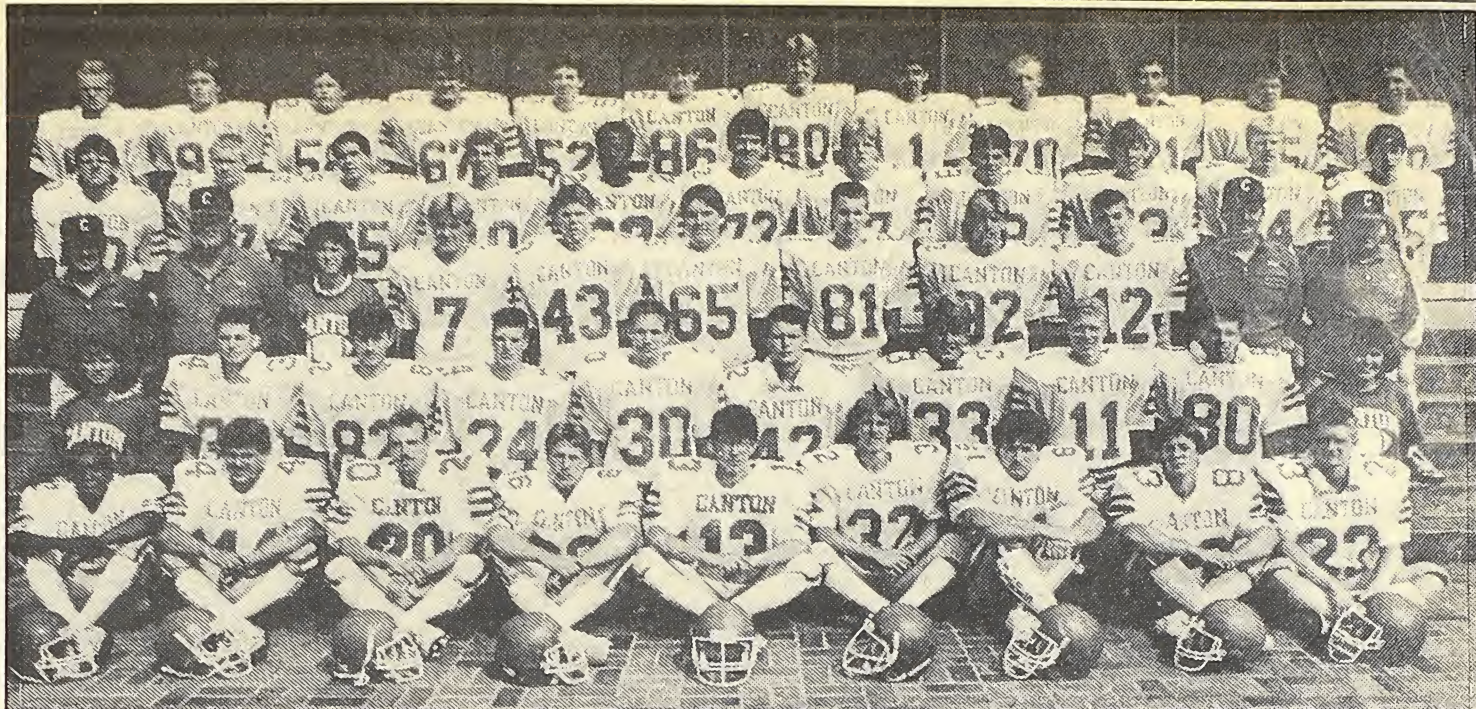

Before Plymouth Canton's football team can become a winner, team members will have to "think like winners."

"One of the major problems we have had here in the past is attitude," says Robert Khoenle, who sounds more like a representative of the W.B. Doner public relations and advertising firm than a newly-hired head football coach. "We have to change our attitude. Think positively. And believe in ourselves - that we can win."

Coming off of an 0-9 season and mired in the basement of their division in the Western Lakes, it's pretty difficult to build winning images.

But that's what Khoenle, who has replaced Rich Barr as the Chiefs' head coach, intends to do. "If you don't feel like a winner, then you're not going to be one - it's as simple as that."

Although Khoenle has served as an assistant coach at Canton for a dozen of years, this will be the first time he has been given the top job. He knows the road to recovery isn't going to be easy. The league is loaded with veteran talent, and rebuilding in ordinary times is difficult; in times when the others have talent is almost impossible. So Khoenle and his staff are faced with the task of improving a team that failed to find its way into the winning column a year ago, and one that apparently has lost its self-esteem.

A four-way scrimmage against Grosse Pointe South, Redford Union, and Warren Woods Notre Dame last week revealed some pertinent facts about the Chiefs, but Khoenle summed it up by saying, "we have a lot of work ahead of us."

Khoenle however has a solid performer in 5-10, 165-pound senior Tony Boueber who is returning as a running back, and Rod Balog, a standout on defense, will use his 6-1, 190-pound senior frame at fullback this year. Other prospective halfbacks the Canton coaches are looking at include Joe Goebel, Rod Tries, Joe and Scott Riggs, Brian Detrih, Rodney Baltes, and Bill McFarland.

"We have pretty good over-all speed on this team this year," noted Khoenle whose baptismal will come from a team that is noted for its speed, Willow Run. The two will meet 7:30 p.m., Friday, Sept. 5 at Canton.

Steve Jenyk, a 6-0, 175-pound senior who replaced Tony Aiken as the starting quarterback when Aiken suffered a broken leg the first game of the season, returns to the QB job. Jenyk has the edge but standing in the wing are Neil Hubert and Ed Bartelli. Other notables the Chiefs will have the service of are co-captain Todd Wood, 6-2, 180 and Glenn Godfrey, 6-2, 210 tackle -both lettered a year ago. Khoenle is looking at Dave Mrosczka, 6-1, 195 senior and Ken Truesdale, 6-1, 250-pound senior as centers, while working out as guards are Brian Gothard, 6-1, 205, and Wes Johnson, 5-10, 190. Look for Jeff Krolicki and John Migyanka at the end posts while other candidates are Marc Rinke (6-0, 195) and Jim Crews (6-0, 195).

"If our defense manages to pick up where it left off last year, we're going to be all-right," says Khoenle.

Rockets: Another perfect season?

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

How do you follow a "perfect act"?

That's what the 1986 edition of the Westland John Glenn's football team is faced with.

The Rockets soared to a 9-0 regular season record a year ago in capturing the Western Lakes Activities title in its first year as a 12-team conference.

But, Coach Chuck Gordon's grid-ers fell in their first appearance in a Class A state playoff.

Can the Rockets improve on their 1985 model? "We have lost 18 of our 22 starters," said Gordon whose first test comes at 7:30 p.m., Friday, Sept. 5 at Belleville, a team that the Rockets buried a year ago. "It's the worst we've been ever decimated by graduation. We are going to have to replace players who have constantly produced for us. It isn't going to be easy."

You can say that again, coach. How do you replace a Tony Boles, who set all kinds of records a year ago en route to state and national recognition as a ballcarrier?

But, as the coach pointed out in an earlier interview: "We're hard to figure out."

How true. The Westlanders have always been tough, be it in the old Northwest Suburban Conference or in the new home. And, most coaches agree that the Rockets have enough reserve power to make them another serious contender this year. In fact, some are comparing this year's team - and the season hasn't even begun - with last year's (and, hey, coach that just "ain't" fair).

Doug Strehl, an all-area, all-conference pick, returns at one of the tackle spots. He's a co-captain and will play a decisive role this year and guards Brian Brown and Ed Hyde plus the return of senior Joe Franchak at center are ample reasons for rival coaches to pick the champ as the team to beat this season in the conference.

If there is any stopping of John Glenn to do, they say, watch for Northville, Churchill and "sleeper" Franklin to become heir-apparent.

Let's take another look at the quality of the Rocket grid ship. With history-making Boles now history, look for Gordon and his staff to look to senior Steve Hawley, a 6-2, 173 pound all-around athlete, and Clint Straub, also renowned for his feats on the baseball field, to master-mind an offense that will be equally potent of past Glenn machines. Then, there is Paul Beasley, one of the tri-captains, who will step into the tail-back slot. Beasley has the potential to make this an even glorious Glenn year.

Rounding out the backfield will be Ken Jones, who steps into the full-back slot that Beasley occupied last year. "Even though he's new to the position," Gordon says of Jones, "he has the potential of developing into a fine fullback."

Mike Hammontree, Greg Bates and Tom Walker will be the targets of Hawley and Straub's passing. (See ROCKETS, Page 10-D)

High school football . . . and heat illness

By CRAIG MILLMAN, M.S., PT
Annapolis Hospital

Around this time each year two things are certain: The temperature and humidity will rise as summer comes to a broiling halt, and young athletes prepare for football.

Most all of us have experienced the increased perspiration, thirst and fatigue associated with performing our daily activities in a late August or early September sauna-like environment. Now imagine cutting the grass or jogging while wearing a football helmet, jersey, pants, shoulder and leg pads.

Between 1960 and 1983, 70 football players died from heat illness. In recent years the numbers of deaths related to football and heat illness have decreased significantly. Unfortunately some coaches, parents and athletes still lack a basic understanding of how heat illness occurs and how to prevent it.

When we exercise, biochemical reactions yield energy for muscle contraction; and a major by-product is heat. The harder we exercise the more heat is produced. The normal temperature for the body at rest is about 98.6 degrees. The exercising body can usually exceed 100 degrees F with no ill effects.

It is with temperatures significantly above 100 degrees F over prolonged periods of time that can lead to possible nervous system and circulatory disorders. Therefore, this excess heat produced during exercise must be dissipated so that athletic performance is not compromised. Heat is lost from the body from the following mechanism:

- Radiation - the loss of heat in the form of infrared rays;
- Conduction - the transfer of heat from the body to an object;
- Convection - the transfer of heat to air from water;
- Evaporation - the transfer of heat from the body as liquid-sweat evaporates, changes from liquid to gas form. Evaporation is the only means of cooling at high environmental temperatures (above 80 degrees F, and is critically important during exercise.

Sufficient hydration of the athlete is necessary for a normal sweating response.

Tips on keeping your cool when the heat is on:

- Encourage or require a preseason conditioning program. This should be performed in a warm or hot environment. No conditioning program performed in air - conditioned surroundings will acclimate athletes to exercise in the heat.
- Begin conditioning slowly.
- Avoid practicing between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., early in the program. Then switch to practicing at competition times once adaptation has been made to training.
- Conduct practice in lightweight uniforms. Wash uniforms saturated with sweat daily to retain the cooling efficiency of the material.

•Have daily weigh-ins before and after each practice session. Athletes who lose more than 5 pounds per practice session or display low heat tolerance should be closely monitored.

•Allow for frequent periods of re-hydration before, during, and after each practice session. Under no circumstance should water be withheld from a player.

•Avoid salt tablets. Because the average American consumes much more salt than recommended, salt tablets are unnecessary. In addition they can irritate the gut, cause diarrhea and lead to excessive fluid losses and dehydration.

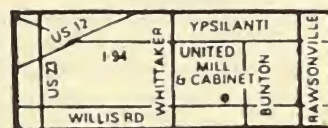

•Use discretion with sports beverages.

•Avoid practice on high temperature and humidity days.

Can new coach take Tigers 'from rags to riches?'

McCarney hopes magical touch will transform 0-9 club into a winner

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

If there is to be a "cinderella team" in the Wolverine 'A' Conference this season, one would have to look to Belleville for the story.

All the ingredients are there for a magical season. A hard-core of returning veterans; a new spirit of optimism, and a new coach who has brought with him from Florida new concepts and new ideas. Dave McCarney, elusive during the training season, is the new coach. "New" is a misnomer because the coach has been at Belleville in the past. He served on the staff of former head coach, now athletic director, Michael Colletta, who handed the coaching reins over to Pete O'Neill three years ago to assume his new responsibilities.

O'Neill didn't have much fun in a tough Wolverine "A" Conference which produced a state Class A champ, in Fordson, and state playoff candidates in Trenton and Monroe. Belleville's 0-9 finish of a year ago wasn't fun either, for anyone, a year ago, and the dismal record apparently precipitated O'Neill's resignation.

Replacing O'Neill, McCarney who returns to this area from Naples, Florida, will get his baptismal from one of the toughest teams in the area in Westland John Glenn, which is coming off of a 9-0 regular season and a 9-1 over-all record, and humiliated Belleville in the 1985 opener.

But don't look for that to happen when the two non-conference foes gather Friday night at 7:30 on Belleville's home turf. The Tiger coaching staff agrees that "Belleville will be greatly improved," a sentiment echoed by Westland John Glenn mentor, Chuck Gordon who stresses, "they have some quality people back and we're going to have to be ready for them."

Belleville's first three games, in fact, should either break or make them. After the Glenn rematch, the Tigers launch the Wolverine "A" campaign against none other than Trenton (Sept. 12), the defending champ and a state playoff qualifier of a year ago. Then they find themselves home again as hosts to Monroe, always a title contender in the league, before running up against Tri-River Conference reject, Southgate Anderson, who has become the newest member of the Wolverine league.

McCarney could easily be heading for Southgate on September 26 with an 0-3 record pinned on the Tiger tail.

And no coach - new or old - looks forward to that kind of start.

Rounding out the Belleville schedule are Wayne Memorial (Oct. 3) which is also greatly improved, followed by Wyandotte (Oct. 10), Lincoln Park (Oct. 17), which the school officials have chosen as their opponents for the homecoming; Fordson (Oct. 25) and then Romulus (Nov. 1) which will bring down the curtains for the 1986 campaign. Don't look for Romulus to be easy pickings, either. Coach Norb Glover has a select corps of veterans who could make this a historic season for the Eagles, if the pieces fall into place.

Belleville should be able to put points on the scoreboard this year - a malaise they couldn't cure a year ago. With a potentially explosive quarterback in 5-9, 150-pound Steve Ostrowski and an all-league running back in Greg Hardman plus Florida transplant, Calvin Alexander, a 5-11, 170 all-around athlete, the offensive backfield looks set.

Still undecided, however, is the fullback slot which is up for grabs between 5-9, 160-pound senior Brent Price and 6-4, 240-pound senior Dan Brown.

There are two others who have heated up the starting assignment debate in the backfield. Moe Smith and J.P. Fallen are excellent prospects who should see more than their share of action.

Belleville will be utilizing the "wishbone" to slip past the defense this season and the staff hopes they have the chemistry both in the backfield and up front to make it work. The "up front" includes letterwinners: center Vaughn Stoltz (6-1, 175), guards Bill Sparrow (5-9, 150) and Matt Bracken (5-11, 185) while the tackles include Jeff Budd (6-1, 175) and at the other side Jeff Sykes, Frank Harding and John Barlage.

The duel between Ray Lewis (6-1, 175) and Blaine Armstrong (6-0, 170) continues for the tight end starting post, while at split end look for Jim Hicks or Andy Gohl to start.

Don't look for Belleville to strike it rich in McCarney's first year, but look for them to surprise a lot of teams ...and folks this year.

Rockets

while the tight end assignment will be assigned to junior Jeff Graham or Harold Lovelace.

Because the offensive line has only two holdovers from last year, it is a major concern of the Rocket coaching. "We have made some good progress," Gordon points out, "but it is untested, and only time will tell what we have - and don't have up front."

Defensively senior Steve Litwin will take over the all-important nose guard slot, handled so capably in the past by Tom Forchione and Joe Sawaya. At defensive ends, look for Mark Bauschat and Joe Franchak while the linebacking corps - always prominent on a Rocket club - will feature Kurt Kurban and Strehl. Hammontree, who is returning in the secondary, will have seniors Greg Bates, Gary Cloud and junior Pat Pettit, fighting out to join him.

In Belleville for the opener on Sept. 5, Gordon & Associates will be greeted by a new Tiger staff. Pete O'Neill has stepped down and the athletic director Mike Colletta has brought in David McCarney to help turn things around.

It's the second week of the season that will determine if these Rockets are as good as some of the area coaches think they are.

Churchill bona fide contender

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Livonia Churchill definitely is a "bona fide" title contender in the Western Lakes this year.

With 16 returning lettermen who earned a 6-3 over-all record a year ago, there is no doubt that second year head coach Herb Osterland will have the horses to make a run for the title.

But, Osterland is quick to point out that "everyone is going to be tough this year."

"Most of the clubs are solid this year," he said, "and everyone has to respect everyone. Each game is going to be tough. Just look at what we're looking at."

What Osterland and his staff see is Farmington Harrison and Northville that are considered among the finest clubs in the area, if not the state; a Livonia Franklin that will be greatly improved and a Plymouth Canton that has a new coach who is out to change the Chiefs' image.

"Let me repeat - the team that wins the title this year is going to have to earn it each week," Osterland stressed.

Churchill has five starters returning off of its offensive team and the center attraction is fullback Jim Naif, a 6-1, 185-pound senior who has been designated as one of the co-captain. "Jim is an excellent athlete and determined competitor. He exemplifies the type of kid we have on the team this year," noted Osterland.

Another standout is 6-2, 200-pound senior, Doug Stark, who had the duo role of linebacker and offensive tackle. Teammate John Kniettel, a defensive back who doubles as a split end, is 6-1 and 160, and has the experience to contribute immensely to the success of the team, according to the coaches.

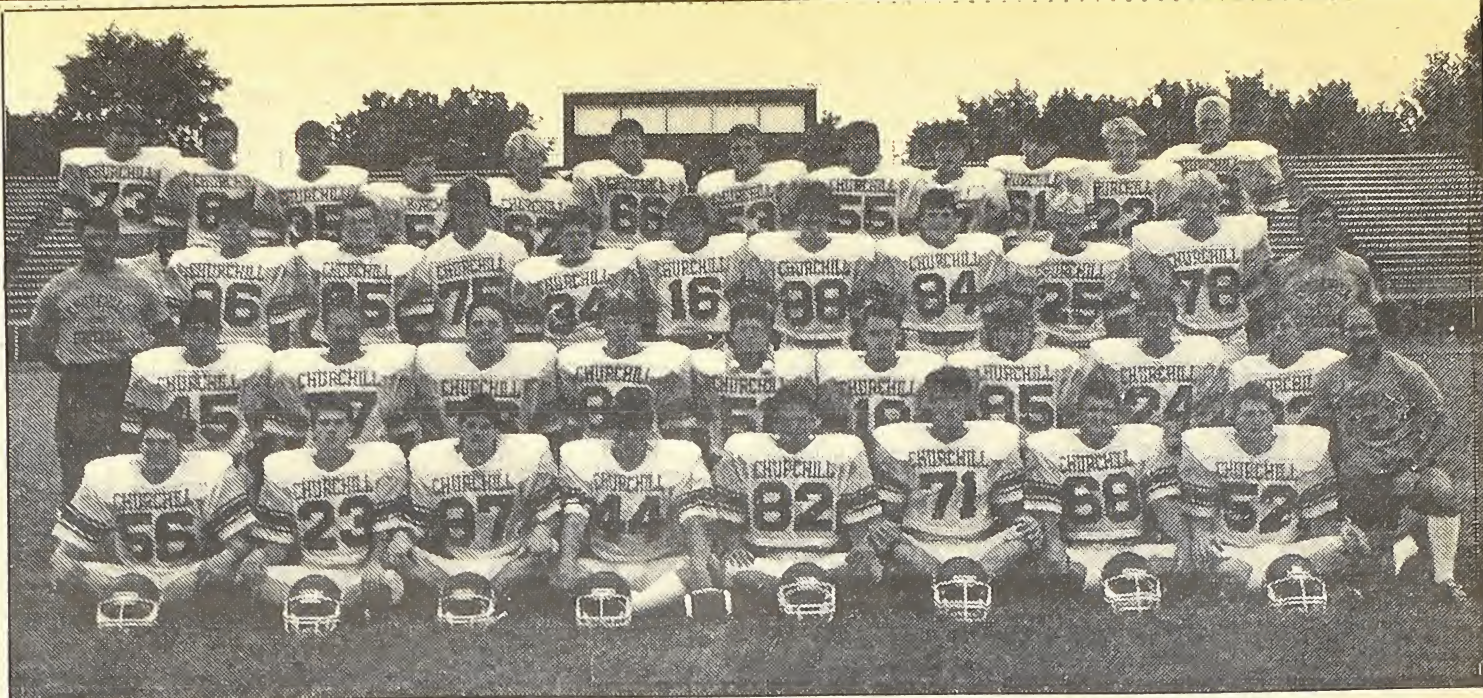

Osterland also believes that Keith McGorisk, a running back who also plays in the secondary on defense, and Kevin Bebb, who is being groomed as a quarterback, will be playing definitive roles this season.

"We had approximately 40 players show up for varsity," said Osterland. "We believe we have what it takes to put on the field a competitive team that everyone will respect."

The Chargers will begin the 1986 campaign on the road at Sterling Heights. Kick-off for the September 5 opener is 7:30 p.m. Churchill is on the road again the following week (Sept. 12) when it opens Western Lakes Conference competition at Plymouth Salem before returning home (Sept. 19) to host Northville for their home opener.

Osterland is rebuilding his offensive line to suit the backfield talent. He's looking for Brian Clemens, a 5-10, 185-pound center to anchor the line; at guards there are seniors Eric Worley, 5-10, 158 and Bill Butler, 6-0, 185, while at tackles the Chargers will probably go with Dave Jensen, 6-1, 218 and Larry Chantres, 6-1, 190 - both of whom are seniors. Eric Wolf (6-1, 180) is working out at the tight end spot and John Kniettel, 6-0, 160 will be switching off with Dave Labshan at the split end.
